Comprehensive Marine Hull Insurance

Program ID: CPG18

23rd to 25th September, 2019

Relevance of the Program:-

Insurance of Hull has been a very challenging subject due to the different laws, conventions and interpretation of clauses. The Maritime industry stretching across the world, encompasses a huge variety of different activities: tankers, gas carriers, container vessels, cruise liners, bulk carriers, ferries, dredgers, oil field support vessels, tugs and barges, to name a few.

This program helps participants to reflect on the changes and developments which have been occurring in the industry that have a direct impact on the way a ship operator manages safety and implements its SMS. The focus is on the three major types of marine insurance: Protection & Indemnity (P&I), Hull & Machinery (H&M) and Freight Demurrage and Defence (FD&D).

Program Objective:-

- Discuss Salient features of Institute Time Clauses
- Investigate the challenges associated with Underwriting and Rating practices
- Dissect the major issues faced when making claims under a hull policy, ensuring major incidents are covered and avoiding losses and delays
- Analyse the considerations involved with general average adjustments
- Explore the factors considered when assessing risks, and provide a greater understanding of how your premium is calculated

Participant Profile:-
