Relevance of the Program:-

Reinsurance is truly global in nature. Reinsurers are able to assume some of the world's largest and most complex risks because they can spread risk on a global basis. The role of reinsurance in building capacity for insurance companies to write new and larger risks including catastrophic risks, and balance their portfolios, cannot be over emphasized. There are various concerns that insurers face in developing their reinsurance strategies and implementing them – improving capital-efficiency, enhancing their capacity to accept more than what their financial resources would ordinarily allow, protecting their account from catastrophic events or abnormally large losses etc.

India has faced some natural calamities in the past few years causing claims to spike and exposing insurance companies to various concerns. In many countries, such disasters can cause situations of liquidity crunch and even ruin for insurers, depending on how well they have planned for dealing with such eventualities. For managing the risks that insurance companies take up through contractual obligations, it becomes very important for them to have appropriate reinsurance programs.

Through this program, the College of Insurance aims to provide a stronger theoretical framework to insurers and others involved in designing Reinsurance Treaties and bring in a higher degree of professionalism in their work.
