

Virtual Training Session on Forensic Science in Insurance Investigations (CVT) 8th August, 2025

Program Concept and Objectives:

The fraudster or criminal, however intelligent and smart he/she may be, will likely leave certain tell-tale forensic evidence, for the Investigator to figure out. The role and significance of forensic science has been consistently growing in insurance claim investigations. It has become an essential part of the judicial system, as it utilizes a broad spectrum of sciences to secure information relevant to criminal and legal evidence. Forensic science is very helpful in proving the existence of a crime, the perpetrator of a crime, or a connection to a crime through the examination of physical evidence.

Keeping the above background and growing importance of Forensics in the Insurance Investigations in mind, College of Insurance has designed a one day virtual training course for professional Investigators to detect and report on Frauds with tangible evidence thereby arrest the growing frauds in the Industry. The course would address not only insurance frauds but also internal frauds and verification of employee antecedents, among others.
