Relevance of the Program:-

Reinsurance is an area of insurance that has a large role in building capacity for Insurance companies to write new and larger risks including catastrophic risks, spread risk on a global basis, improve capital-efficiency, and balance their portfolios. Reinsurance enables Insurers to accept more than what their financial resources would ordinarily allow, protect their account from catastrophic events, help them to assume some of the world's largest and most complex risks and face abnormally large losses. There are various concerns that insurers face in developing their reinsurance strategies and implementing them which cannot be over emphasized. The role of Reinsurance in providing protection from the disturbing effects of Climate change and natural catastrophes like cyclone, earthquakes, tsunamis, floods etc. is immense.

It has become imperative for Insurance and Reinsurance executives to be familiar with the concepts and practices of Reinsurance business. Practitioners need to develop better awareness on the different aspects on the changing scenario, be aware of the newly emerging developments in the industry and acquire advanced skills to face these contemporary changes and match the dynamism of international markets. In addition to the traditional practices of managing Reinsurance, insurance executives are required to be up-to-date with emerging ideas in respect of other Reinsurance markets, controlling accumulations, Alternative Risk Transfer mechanisms, and other issues critical to handling reinsurance business, including the use of information technology and appreciating modelling for appropriate reinsurance decisions to maintain their relevance in the market.

In this context, the College of Insurance has designed this special program for people working in Insurance, Reinsurance and allied sectors in various countries.
